Quex Park, Birchington-On-Sea, CT7 0BH

powell-cottonmuseum.org

Sun 14, 11am-4pm

Quex House was built in 1812, and many of the passions and interests of its builder John Powell-Powell can still be seen today, including a collection of Napoleonic memorabilia, a collection of naval cannons and the distinctive boat-shaped curve to two of the publicly accessible rooms.

The house has been extensively remodelled in its lifetime, with the current layout largely reflecting the life of Percy Powell-Cotton and his family, who lived in the house in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Percy is perhaps best known as the founder of the Powell-Cotton Museum and an explorer, with his travels and enthusiasm for collecting reflected in the house. Many international influences can be found in the Drawing Room, for example, which features a beautiful papier mache ceiling decorated in a Persian-style pattern.

Quex Gardens span 7 acres, enjoy a woodland walk, a walled kitchen garden, a croquet lawn, beautiful borders, and an ornamental fountain.

New for 2025! View the refreshed gallery interpretation in galleries 1, 2 and 3 featuring new stories and facts about natural history and redisplay of objects and photos from Kenya, Uganda, South Sudan and Ethiopia.
